MARYLAND'S SPORTING SCRAPBOOK

The season of hunter trials brings sharply into focus the rhythm of sporting events and how each dovetails with the other. Hunter trials seem a long way removed from racing, but in actual fact they are the next step to it for even though a trial is merely a lark across country for a good hunter, it is done under the stress of competition and at a good galloping pace. The owner whose horse does well at a hunter trial, has had demonstrated that he has a Thoroughbred that can gallop on and jump without the music of hounds and the excitement of the 'chase to whet his appetite.

Maryland has demonstrated the significance of this seasonal program and the importance of a close adherence to it in a remarkable degree. There is no state in the country quite so sporting minded as Maryland and at the head of the calendar is a long list of Maryland race tracks, Pimlico, Laurel, Bowie, Havre de Grace, Timonium, Bel Air, Marlboro; it has an entire flock of pony shows, another flock of good hunter shows, point-to-points, trotting and last but not least, its famous Maryland Hunt Cup. It is not just by coincidence that horsemen for generations have been adhering strictly to their sporting calendar that commences not on January 1st as do most calendars, but with the turning of the leaves and the first frost.

Marylanders are preparing in September for racing in the Spring and they do it at hunter trials and foxhunting first of all. It was interesting at the hunter trial of the Elkridge-Harford Hunt the middle of October, horses entering it were not just any old hunters, but were those that had been competing successfully at the Maryland Hunt Cup and at the other of Maryland's famous timber races. The winner actually, Fife Symington's Palau, was not a racehorse although bred to be one and still may be but the others were all Maryland's timber horses going quietly as proven hunters.

In using this type of horse, Marylanders were proving two points. One, the basic quality of their sporting tradition which has always represented home-bred, home-trained horses, ridden by their owners competing for the fun of a game; and two that despite dire forebodings, horses properly made, can be just as good confidential hunters as they can be bona fide racehorses; if anything, the hunter is made a safer mount if raced over timber than not, for he learns his lessons the hard way, at a galloping speed, competing with other horses. The rough and tumble of the timber race, makes hunting child's play while as a youngster, the early days in the hunting field and the hunter trial, have given him a proper respect for the sterner trials of timber racing.

Horses that make good hunters, also make good race horses and Marylanders have for generations been successfully making their mounts do both, and what is more, not breaking them down any faster over timber than galloping behind a pack of hounds. The reason is simple enough; Maryland's timber courses have good grass, the pace is not the blinding one of a flat horse who moves faster than his bone and sinew can take; rapping rails over timber is no worse than the pounding a hunter will get galloping over hard ground on a long day's hunt. From the hunter trials and the hunting field, the spirit of competition simmers through the winter months to burst forth in the spring with the early point-to-points and the big timber meetings, after that Maryland turns to flat racing.

Bear in mind that with all of this amateur activity, there are no brush jumps or hurdle racing; it is straight timber racing, the kind that makes an English Grand National rider have fitful dreams at night just thinking of it. Maryland horsemen have always raced their own animals over timber and from doing this, they have moved into the 'chasing and flat racing ranks. It is for this reason that Maryland is able to boast such a great heritage of sporting men and women. They have proven the essence of sport is in the doing of it, and that those who ride their own horses will one day go to race their own horses, but that the best of them are never tired of seeing how capable each horse is, not in one field but in a variety; horse show, hunter trial, fox hunt, point-to-point, hunt meeting and on the flat, Maryland horses try anything, do anything, and thrive on it. Horsemen all over the country can take a lesson from this Maryland sporting scrap book, that proves when you give a horse proper training he'll do anything you ask of him and be a better all around animal as a result, for he learns a little something from each form of endeavor that he applies to his next exercises. The fact that a Maryland timber horse is also a good hunter goes without saying, and is just another way of saying that a Maryland foxhunter is almost invariably a racing man at heart with sporting blood coursing deep in the roots of him, as fundamental an appeal as the will to run in the horses he rides.

Letters To The Editor

Balancing the Budget

Dear Sir:

There are in this country possibly 10 hunts that have large budgets. The remainder of us struggle from year to year to advance the sport of hunting. We work on a meager budget of far less than $10,000. As a point, in fact, we give you The Frankstown Hunt, that went out 52 times last season. We figure that a meet costs approximately $100. There is no rich godfather to endow us.

Our budget last year was $5,400, for which we paid $208 per month for 18 couples of hounds and the raising of 6 young entry. We do not pretend to follow the finest English hunts; however, we have modified the American hunts to our particular locality.

Over 100 square miles, we have made drag hunting a success by going to the farmers and building fences each season where their crops would permit. Live foxhunting, except on occasion where the fox goes through the panels, is impossible. Each year we paid a farmer $15 per panel and gave him a fine dinner and candy for Christmas. As a result of this, and the fact that we have several members who are friendly with the farmers, we have had little trouble. This is the secret of fox hunting on a small budget.

Why say $10,000 is necessary for our small hunts? After talking to several Masters, we are in agreement that hunting can be done for far less. If hunting is to be continued, it must be done on a practicable basis—$5,000 or less per year.

Very truly yours,

L. P. Glover, M. F. H.
The Frankstown Hunt

P. S. Why won't Masters of Hunts face the facts as they are?

"Rogue's Badge"

Dear Sir:

Can you tell me why such a number of American Thoroughbred horses have become so faint hearted that many have to wear the "Rogue's Badge" as a hood was called in my younger days?

It seems odd that the get of honest imported horses who never saw such a thing should be so adorned. As so many owners seem to take pride in hoods of bright colors with their initials on them one would think they were crowns of glory and not a shame.

Perhaps it may have something to do with training methods. I do not think trotting horses wear them. Can their trainers be better? Any information you can give me I should like to have.

Sincerely,

George L. Harrison

All At Once Wins Empire City Handicap Over Sloppy Track From Royal Castle By A Neck; Grantland Rice Celebrates 70th Birthday

Joe H. Palmer

There have been too many figures in this space recently, so they will be handled sparingly in this instance. But at Jamaica, on last Saturday, there were 26,777 presumably immortal souls. It brought back to my recollection a complaint from Mark Twain, that we need another July 4. There were, he said, more fools killed on that date than on any other, and that the number left in stock proved that we needed another July 4, to keep up with the growth of the country.

Well, from eleven in the morning (maybe earlier, if you were up) until race time, there was one of those vicious fall rains, with a whopping wind behind it to get it into places where it normally wouldn't fall, and exactly why anyone without a definite monetary stake would move himself from dry and comfortable territory to the concrete gward at Jamaica passes ordinary understanding. So just the same, the attendance was 26,777, and I couldn't say more about the pulling power of horse racing if I wrote a thesis.

The same rain made a very sloppy track for the running of the Empire City Handicap, and at most tracks would have made the footing very deep. Jamaica has so much sand in it that the horses had a couple of inches of water to contend with, and then fairly hard footing under it, as was proved when Maljo, a $7,500 plater, got over six furlongs in 1:11 4-5, one race ahead of the feature.

The Empire City Handicap proved, if proof was needed, that not much is left in the 3-year-old division, with Hill Prince, Bed o'Roses, and Next Move in California, Greek Song with a bow, Greek Ship laid up for the year, and Middleground nursing a broken sesamoid. The winner was All at Once. You'll remember the line from Mr. Holmes celebrated poem about the disintegration of the one-horse shay, which went to pieces, "all at once and nothing first." Well, that's the way All at Once came to this race. He'd never won a stakes race, and in fact hadn't tried to win one since last April, when he was left away back in a sprint at Suffolk Downs, behind such horses as Thwarted and Cacomio. He'd been out twenty-three times before and had earned considerably less than the $22,750 that he got in the 1:59 it took him to win the Empire City Handicap.

All at Once carried 103 pounds, and would have had 102 if another pound could have been worked off of Nick Wall, who incidentally has turned just a moderate comeback into a highly successful one by winning something like $85,000 in the last few weeks. (He got the Demoiselle and the Selima on Aunt Jenny, you'll remember.) All at Once got the lead at the start, stretched it to four lengths, and then won by a neck, with Royal Castle pulling him down at the end. The latter, which isn't any Man o'War either, might have won the race if it hadn't been for an unusual performance by Ted Atkinson. Ted, who can normally do 105 pounds after a spaghetti dinner at Leone's went in four pounds overweight, and Royal Castle carried 109. Take off the overweight, and I think he might have won.

There were some good horses back of these, in Oil Capitol, Sun-glow, and Lights Up, and I suppose the only thing to say of them is that they didn't like slop. Oil Capitol ran a fair race, 3rd most of the way, and he finished there. Brookmeade was rooting for a third for Sun-glow, because this would have put the stable ahead of Calumet Farm in earnings. He ran 4th instead, leaving his stable with $599,149, and still $806 behind first place.

On the opening day at Pimlico the attendance was estimated at 11,000, which turned out to err on the side of charity, for the official figure was 8,992, and since it was a bright warm day, it seems strange that it didn't draw better. The Pimlico Special, to be sure, didn't draw any really top horses, but it was, and figured to be, a very good contest. This was a front-running victory, too, with One Hitter making the pace and pulling out in the stretch. The charts say he won easily, but Atkinson, who rode him, said he was doing all he could.

An interesting phenomenon in this race was L. J. Shaw's Abstract, which had won the Washington Handicap at Laurel, and thus was automatically invited to the Special. He came out wearing a complete leather cup over his left eye, which was certainly supererogation, because he's completely blind in that eye, as a result of ophthalmia. He had a half-cup over the other eye, and I was told that he had periodic spells of cloudiness in that one. He's barred in New York, and I'm surprised that he's allowed to race anywhere. Bobby Bauer, who rode him, kept him pretty well out all the way, where there wasn't anything to run into, and he turned in a fair race to finish 3rd. *Chicle II got slammed at the start when Royal Governor broke out of hand, but he runs from behind anyway, and he got through on the rail to be a moderate 2nd. This was interesting but not profitable, because there's no second money in the Special. Still, he was a good claim at $7,500, because he's won $82,800.

Last Wednesday, November 1, was the seventieth birthday of Grantland Rice, celebrated sports writer and dally double player, who says he has never loved a horse except when it was six lengths in front at the eighth-pole, at better than seven to one, with his money on it. The Empire City Racing Association made quite an occasion of it, and after the race which was named for Rice, James Butler and his associates had an informal cocktail party for him. And who, do you suppose, broke it up by saying, "Well, there's a race coming up. Can I make a bet for anybody else?" You're right, of course.

Two year ago this same Rice walked over to where the owner of Cain Hoy Stable was proudly watching *Imprudence II being walked around a tree at Saratoga.

"Harry," he said, "The Owl says this race is between No. 5 and No. 6. What do you think?"

A bystander sidled over. "Look, Granny," he said, "Don't call the man's horse No. 5. He just paid $150,000 for her."

Rice looked at him curiously. "That's what The Owl said, 5 or 6,"

Timonium and Pimlico Scene of Maryland Fall Sales November 2 and 3

The Maryland Fall Sales held at Timonium and Pimlico on November 2 and 3, had some 164 head of broodmares, weanlings, yearlings, horses in training, as well as hunter prospects to pass before auctioneer George Swinebroad and announcer Humphrey Finney. Prices were a bit disappointing, but perhaps there may be another Twink-Mo, dam of Uncle Miltie, to pass through the ring as in 1948. Tops among the broodmares was Montpelier's 9-year-old bay Precipitation, by Stimulus—Nimba, by *War Cloud, which was knocked down at $3,700 to Humphrey S. Finney as agent. The top price of the sales, $5,000, was given by G. Mohr for a bay yearling filly by The Rhymer—Blue Brandy, by Blue Larkspur, consigned by Ira Knoll Farm.

Charles Howard—Fine Sportsman

Love of Horses Brought Unusual Success
In Racing World and Lifetime of Pleasure
On His Breeding Farm and At the Track

Aidan Roark

When Charles S. Howard died last June, California lost a fine sportsman and a great patron of the turf. Charlie Howard was born in Georgia about 72 years ago and his love for horses dates back to his boyhood days in that state.

His first venture in business was a bicycle shop in New Jersey, where he spent a number of years before coming west to make his permanent home in San Francisco. There he established the Buick agency which bore his name and laid the foundation for a vast series of enterprises which he maintained and took an active interest in until he passed away. That was shortly after the turn of the century, but it wasn't till about 25 years ago that he became active in racing, when he bought a few moderate horses and started what was destined to be a far-flung and very successful Thoroughbred empire. During this comparatively short time he enjoyed a brand of success such as is given to few men.

Almost overnight the Howard name and colors became famous throughout the length and breadth of the land, and in other lands, too, because he bought lavishly of racing and breeding stock wherever good horses were to be found. He brought them here from Ireland, England, France, Argentina, Australia, conducting something of a global nature in his never ending search for outstanding horses. Success, however, never went to his head and he remained a modest and unassuming man, always maintaining that he had more than his share of luck. Maybe he was an unusually lucky person, but when you have as many outstanding horses as Charlie Howard had, you can be pretty sure it was backed up by something more than luck.

His first venture into racing came when he bought a few horses and placed them under the care of Major Sven Christenson who had a stable at Pleasanton, Calif. They were very ordinary platers, but they won races and while they didn't bring the Howard colors any great prominence at that time they did start a cycle which saw the white triangle "H" become famous at most of the nation's leading tracks. Incidentally, the triangle "H" was the cattle brand used on the Howard ranches, one of which was located near Elko, Nevada, and spread over 19,000 acres. Another ranch of about the same size was situated close to Livingston, Calif. Howard was deeply interested in his cattle projects and devoted much of his time to their development and management, but his main interest was, of course, centered in the Ridgewood Ranch near Ukiah, Calif. Here on a magnificent stretch of 18,000 acres he established his nursery. It is an ideal spot to raise Thoroughbreds and the facilities are modern to the last detail even to deer proof fences. There is stabling for over 100 head of horses. The land is good and is fed by numerous springs which give an ample water supply the year round and there is over 300 acres of fenced paddocks. The land and facilities are just about everything anyone could ask for, and in addition there is great natural beauty including a lake over a mile long and a stand of redwood trees for which California is justly famed.

Charlie Howard's great ambition was to raise top class horses, but he never succeeded in achieving his desire. He did produce some useful horses which turned out to be good winners, but nothing of the class of horses he bought, such as Seabiscuit, *Kayak II and *Noor. However, it certainly isn't any disgrace to fail to produce horses of that caliber or even slightly less distinguished because as we all know they come few and far between. In addition to the Thoroughbreds he also raised fine saddle and quarter horses.

At one time or another Charlie Howard had upwards of 70 horses in training which were campaigned across the country in two divisions, and when you add to this 80 or so mares, several stallions and the young stock you begin to get some idea of the scope on which he operated. His favorite horse was of course, Seabiscuit whose complete record is too well known to repeat here. But I think the most amazing thing about Seabiscuit's career is that before Howard acquired him for $8,000, he wasn't even a fair race horse. This might have been due to the fact that he had been raced to death. Anyway, soon after he came to California he began to find the form that led on to a great number of brilliant victories and also some heart-breaking defeats. I can't remember all his wins, but they included the Hollywood Gold Cup, the Pimlico Special, in which he ran away from War Admiral, two close seconds in the Santa Anita Handicap, the Massachusetts Handicap, his final win in the Santa Anita Handicap in which he came out of retirement to beat his stablemate *Kayak II, plus many other stake wins. There was also a match race with *Ligaroti at Del Mar which the "Biscuit" won by a nose after a stirring battle in which the riders of both horses are said to have given an exhibition seldom seen outside rodeo grounds. *Ligaroti was jointly owned by Bing Crosby and Howard's son, Lindsay, and about this race there is an amusing yarn which Lin himself told me. Father and son had quite a substantial side bet on the outcome and prior to the race Lin had given his father considerable advice on how Seabiscuit should be prepped which, of course, is quite a natural thing for sons to do. Anyway, not long after the race Lin received a beautifully bound book from his dad which bore this title on the cover: "All I know about training horses" by Lindsay Howard. The book contained 200 pages—all of them blank.

Charlie Howard won the Santa Anita Handicap three times in the short period of 13 years, with Seabiscuit, *Kayak II and the Irish-bred *Noor. But he had many other stake winners, including Yankee Dandy, Sea Sovereign, Lou-Bre, Midland, Chiquita Mia, Miss Doreen and Porter's Cap, all of which won stakes at Santa Anita and most of them at other tracks. So often did the Howard horses visit the winner's circle at this track that it became known as "Howard's Half-Acre." After a period of three or four years during which the Howard horses swept the boards throughout the country, people began calling him "Lucky Howard" and some of them hinted that this was all very fine, but what would happen when things didn't go so well. They seemed to expect that when lean years came along Howard wouldn't be able to take it. But they didn't know their man. They didn't know that he loved horses and that he was in to stay. Howard did have some comparatively lean years, at least for him, but he took it in his stride and went right ahead until he finally came up with the mighty *Noor, which horse gave him perhaps the greatest thrill of his life when he humbled Citation and other fine horses in a brilliant series of races over the past year. Another fine horse he brought to this country was the Argentine Sortado, which broke the American record for a mile and one-half at Hollywood Park and might have gone on to bigger things, but unfortunately broke a leg while campaigning in the East and had to be destroyed. He imported the great sire and race horse, Ajax, winner of 36 out of 46 starts in Australia and now standing at the Ridgewood Ranch with Sabu, Midland, and Sea Sovereign, probably the best son of Seabiscuit. Then there was *Fast and Fair and *Fair Truckle brought over from England.

Charlie Howard was very close to his horses. Rain or shine he went to the track every morning, mounted his saddle horse and went out to keep a sharp lookout on the works. In the afternoons he was always in his box at the races and doing what he enjoyed most, having a mild flutter on whatever he happened to fancy. However, he was not averse to making some pretty substantial side bets, but this he only did with his friends. He never wagered with those who couldn't afford to lose. There was nothing he liked better than getting the best of a member of his family and here's a little story about one such incident. A few years ago Lin bet his father that a horse he was high on, couldn't go 3-8 under such and such a time. Lin had just about forgotten the incident when his father phoned him one evening saying the bet was on and he was ready to work the horse the following morning. It turned out to be an extraordinary work in which the horse beat Lin's stipulated time by a full second or more. Lin couldn't understand how this could have happened until his father took him out on the track and let him in on the secret. Along the rail the track was just as hard as cement, and when Lin asked how it got that way his father chuckled and said: "I had a heavy roller on it all night." Lin laughed when he told me this and said you had to get up early if you wanted to put one over on the old man. But apparently this was one time Lin snoozed too long.

In his will Howard requested that his colors be carried on even though it be on a modest scale, and this I understand Mrs. Howard intends to do. Mrs. Howard is a very gracious lady and a keen student of racing. She will retain *Noor, *Ajax, about nine mares and several yearlings with which she will continue the fine tradition her husband worked so hard to create. The rest of the Howard horses will be sold at Santa Anita on Nov. 27th at public auction. The list includes 9 stallions, 28 yearlings and 68 broodmares, five of which will be sold with services to *Noor in 1951, a fact which should be of great interest to breeders.

Charlie Howard was a fine influence in the Thoroughbred industry and a grand sportsman. He enjoyed great success in his all too brief career on the turf, but no one deserved it more for he brought the best of horses to California and made many important contributions to the welfare of high class racing. He was one of the original founders of the California Thoroughbred Breeders Association in which he was a vice-president for many years and worked untiringly to make California a great racing and breeding state. Not many people know that he founded and maintained two hospitals in California. One at Willets and the other at Belmont, which was

Parkwood Disperses At Woodbine Park; Nephisto Tops Sale

Broadview

The dispersal sale of Parkwood Stable's horses in training, yearlings, weanlings, sires and broodmares, at Woodbine Park, Toronto, on Oct. 24th provided an opportunity to buyers, perhaps, unsurpassed in Canada's history. Col. R. S. MacLaughlin has been one of Canada's leading breeders and importers of breeding stock. The 45 head of horses were consigned by E. P. Taylor, who recently purchased the Parkwood Farm at Ashawa, Ontario for a National Stud. The stallions *Fairaris and Teddy Wrack were bought for the National Stud. Both are proven high class sires.

The leading Canadian 3-year-old colt Nephisto topped the sale at $10,700, which was paid by the 3 V's Stable from Winnipeg, Manitoba. Charles Hemstead, bought the promising 2-year-old colt, Corwynt for $5,700. The bay son of Teddy Wrack—Gracious Miss is a likely candidate for next year's King's Plate.

The sterling race horse Kingarvie, now 7 years old, and holder of the all time money winning record for a Canadian-bred ($91,170) was knocked down to Mrs. Arthur Brent for $5,400. The gelding has won most of Canada's principal races including the King's Plate and has won 4 races this year.

Other sales of interest were the purchase by Frank Conklin of a weanling filly, a full sister to Kingarvie for $2,700, while her mother *Forsworn, now 20, but looking grand and in foal to *Fairaris, was bought by Justin M. Cork for $1,250.

A. B. Hancock of Paris, Kentucky, said he had not attended the sale by design, but he took home Tidal, a broodmare by *Bull Dog out of a mare by My Play for $1,000. A shrewd purchase no doubt.

Humphrey S. Finney of Towson, Maryland, assisted auctioneer Doc Bond by acting as master of ceremonies and summarizing the pedigrees.

Merryland Farm Host To Horsemen At Annual Yearling Trials; English Stakes Winner To Race In Florida

Good old Maryland southern hospitality was the main order of the day at Merryland Farm, Hyde, where Mr. and Mrs. Danny Shea were host for their annual yearling trials. A barbeque laid out with plenty of "that there stuff" to keep out the cold was well patronized by the large gathering of horsemen which attended.

There were 40 yearlings owned by some 16 patrons that went out in sets of five. The condition and manners of all the yearlings speak well for farm manager Robert Shea, who is running things while the elder Shea's are at the track. As there was quite a difference in the length of time that the youngsters had been in work, it was impractical to have time trials. The youngsters galloped about a mile and then breezed through the stretch, usually with the five finishing in a photo.

The stable area seemed alive with red sweaters with green ribbing, the farm colors, sported by the Merryland "boys", as they readied a set or walked another.

Humphrey S. Finney as the announcer was his usual inimitable self, and as the yearlings came up the track to the front of the "stands", Mr. Finney would relate the pedigree and a little background on the animals before they worked.

Among the sets by some 30 stallions were: a half-brother to Blue Swords and Steel Blue, by Count Fleet; a half-brother to Alabama and Revoked, by *Priam II; a half-brother to Alex Barth, by Count Fleet; a half-brother to Espino Gold and Devalue, by Challedon; and a half-sister to Tidy Bid, by *Jacopo.

Between the 4th and 5th sets the Merryland Farm stallions were brought out on the track. Leading the parade was the young *Bull Dog stallion, Cassis, a winner of $101,382. His first crop, the sum total of one, is racing this year. Then came the Belmont winner, Peace Chance, whose actions belie his 19 years. His get have earned through June 1949, $1,536,660 in first monies. In the third position, was the 12-year-old Little Beans, a stakes winner and sire of the stakes winner, Fritz Maisel, and other winners. Completing the line-up was the 8-year-old bay horse, Turbine. Turbine, set 2 American records, one track record and won some $182,500. This fellow is the son of Lucky Jean, by Incantation—*Wings of the Wind one of Merryland's top broodmares, and was foaled at this farm. All the stallions appeared in fine condition and were well mannered, the only offense being when Cassis decided that the spectators were leaning too far over the rail, and remedied the situation.

Merryland Farm is fast becoming one of the best Thoroughbred breeding and training farms in the state, and as Mr. Finney said, "If you stay away only a little while, there is sure to be a new barn or two by the time you get back."

Next year, it would be a good idea for horsemen to take an inventory and see the improvements that have taken place during the year.

Stakes winners to the broodmare band....Lock and Key, Courtney Burton's brown mare by *Easton—Level Head by *Sir Gallahad III, may be sent to the stud during the coming season. The 6-year-old mare is a steeplechase stakes winner of 11 races and some $59,295, setting 4 new race records. A few of her victories were in the Delaware National Maiden Hurdle, Saratoga Maiden Hurdle Stakes, Bushwick Hurdle Handicap, Chevy Chase Steeplechase Handicap (4:45 2-5 new track record), Bushwick Maiden Hurdle Handicap, and 2nd in the Belmont Spring Maiden 'chase, and 3rd in The Temple Gwathmey. Lock and Key's second dam Dustsweep, is a half-sister to the sires Reaping Reward and Whirlaway. The other is the 5-year-old daughter of Bimelech—Foxy Agnes by Gallant Fox, Alfoxie. This bay mare is the winner of 7 races and some $43,820, and was recently sold at the Mrs. Ambrose Clark dispersal sale to John duBois Wack of California. She was the winner of the Jasmine Stakes and The Laurel, taking 2nd in the Selma Stakes and Correction Handicap, and was 3rd in the Black Helen Handicap. Her latest start was at the United Hunts meeting when she ran 2nd to Fred Hooper's Emergency Hour in an allowance hurdle race at Belmont. Alfoxie arrived at C. F. White's Elmsmeade Farm, Lexington, on November 1st, but as yet no stallion has been selected, as is the case with Lock and Key.

Former easterners, Mr. and Mrs. Bliss Flaccus, who have been breeding horses in Arizona, have recently purchased the 208 acre Prospect Hill Stud in Harford County, Bel Air, Maryland, from Mrs. R. H. Heighe. They will stand their stallions Boxthorn and Whirling Fox on the newly acquired establishment, and expect to be at their new address by December 1st.

Among the latest to try his hand at international racing is William Woodward's Lone Eagle. The 4-year-old son of *Isolator—Martigal was a stakes winner in England of the Hastings Stakes, the Queen Elizabeth and the Ascot Vase, also a 2nd in the King George VI and a 3rd in the St. Leger. The brown colt is due to arrive in this country sometime this month and after a brief rest will be shipped to Hialeah, where he will carry the Belair colors.

Jester's Moon Bests Royal Mission

New Jersey Hunt Cup 4th Win In 5 Starts;
Bab's Whey Captures Wilmerding Memorial
Cup For Owner-Breeder Mrs. Fay Ingalls

Nancy G. Lee

As one timber rider has so aptly put it, "Jester's Moon is the best timber horse to be seen between the flags in quite a few years." This bay gelding had his inaugural outing between the flags at Rolling Rock on October 4 when he finished 2nd. He came right back on the 7th to enter the winner's circle. Following that trip, he has since gone postward at Whitmarsh and Monmouth, chalking up a winning ride for Mr. W. H. Dixon each time. The 29th running of the New Jersey Hunt Cup was on November 4 at the 31st annual Essex Fox Hounds Race Meeting which is held at Froh-Heim, Far Hills, N. J. This event brought out 3 starters, Jester's Moon, Lee L. Chandler III's Royal Mission, which had won the race in 1948, and a new-comer to the timber ranks, Paul H. Gugger's Sky Rocket.

Liking Starter Harry Plumb's English barrier, which was being used for the first time at this meeting, Mr. H. Lewis and Sky Rocket wasted no time in going to the front. Over the 1st jump and alongside the woods, Sky Rocket had opened up a 10-length gap as he went over the 2nd jump, followed by Jester's Moon, and Royal Mission. At the 3rd jump, it was still Sky Rocket, Jester's Moon and Royal Mission picked up ground as he really put in a big one.

After the 4th jump there is a slight uphill drive and behind the judges' stand is an in-and-out. Before reaching the 5th, Sky Rocket had slowed down to a slow canter as Jester's Moon took over the pace setting. Both Jester's Moon and Royal Mission went safely through the in-and-out but Sky Rocket faced a problem as he jumped in but didn't get out. After some persuasion, the feat was accomplished and he was ridden off the course.

Jester's Moon and Royal Mission continued along at an even pace and after the 10th, Mr. G. Stephens hustled up Royal Mission to go to the top. However, Mr. Dixon brought Jester's Moon on again to lead over the 11th. Jester's Moon made a slight bobble over the 12th but didn't relinquish his pace setting duties.

Downhill after the 15th, Royal Mission was again sent to the front but Jester's Moon passed him at the 16th. By the 18th, Mr. Dixon really had Jester's Moon tincanning, but both horses were running and jumping well, making it a good 2-horse race. Jester's Moon landed in front over the 22nd and last and up the slight grade into the stretch, Mr. Stephens and Royal Mission made a great effort to catch the leader but it wasn't to be done.

Jester's Moon galloped across the finish line to a 10-length victory and an earned rest. As neither the Middleburg or Montpelier meeting will have a timber race, unless the hunting field beckons, the timber toppers will ease up until they go postward in March.

Maiden hurdle horses lined up for The Bedminster which was about 1 3/4 miles over 8 hurdles. F. Ambrose Clark's Flash O'Fire, with Jockey E. Carter up, left the pack on top, followed by Mrs. Margaret Kirkpatrick's Flag Ho. Jockey K. Field took over the pace setting with Flag Ho and led the way until after the 5th. Jockey J. Murphy moved up on the leader after the 5th but Flash O'Fire was making his move and at the 6th, it was Flash O'Fire, Blue Teal and Happy Hill Farm's *Sonatine with Jockey E. Phelps in the irons.

Flash O'Fire held his contention safe over the remaining hurdles but Blue Teal dropped back as *Sonatine moved into 2nd ahead of Main Earth Stable's *Allfor over the 8th. The first two horses over the last hurdle were neck and neck but in the stretch drive, Flash O'Fire was ridden out to win by 1/2 a length. *Sonatine placing ahead of Jockey M. Flynn on W. R. Miller's Teddy Briar. A claim of foul against Flash O'Fire over the last hurdle was lodged by Jockey Phelps but was not allowed.

The Wilmerding Memorial Cup, run over timber through 1935, was a winning outing for Mrs. Fay Ingalls' home-bred and owned Bab's Whey. Run over hurdles since 1936, the event brought out 7 starters. In the early stages, J. C. Brady's Boom Boom and Jockey F. D. Adams were showing the way in front of Thomas Stokes' *Tolbiac and Jockey E. Phelps. However, Jockey A. P. Smithwick was within striking distance with Mrs. H. A. May, Jr.'s Golden Risk and he soon sent the bay gelding to the front. At the 6th it was Golden Risk, *Tolbiac, Boom Boom, L. E. Stoddard's Strategy, Bab's Whey, L. A. Hancock's Albatross and Mrs. E. duPont Weir's Cherwell.

Golden Risk was still handling the pace setting over the 11th and last but Mr. C. V. B. Cushman had been moving right along on Bab's Whey and came up on even terms with Golden Risk at the head of the stretch. With Mr. Cushman and Jockey Smithwick riding all out, the two horses provided a good finish, the winner being Bab's Whey with Golden Risk 2nd and Boom Boom 3rd. Behind them were *Tolbiac, Cherwell and Albatross. After jumping the 10th hurdle, Jockey O. A. Brown pulled up on Strategy and it was found that the horse had a broken bone. He had to be destroyed.

Last year Trainer J. V. H. Davis saddled I. A. Daffin's *Irish Monkey to win The Peapack, about 1 1/4 miles on the flat. Jockey E. Carter had the winning ride. This year the girth was tightened on Arthur E. Pew, Jr.'s *Heron Lore, a previous winner at Rolling Rock as color-bearer for D. D. Odell and a winner at Monmouth on October 28th for his new owner.

the flat. R. K. Mellon's grey gelding, Arctic Fox, which moved easily from the blue ribbon section in the horse shows to the winner's circle at hunt meetings, chalked up another victory, this time with Jockey F. D. Adams riding.

Early pacesetter, S. R. Fry's Fenland, a newcomer to the hunt meeting ranks, was ridden by Jockey C. Harr. The 4-year-old chestnut gelding, followed closely by W. B. Cocks' Swiggle and Mr. E. Weymouth, headed the field for the first 1/2-mile but then Mrs. John Strawbridge, Jr.'s Homesun and Jockey C. Hunsberger took over the top position. Running closely behind Homesun were Arctic Fox and Swiggle. In a driving finish, Arctic Fox raced to a length victory as Homesun placed a neck ahead of Swiggle.

After a virtual cloudburst around noon, the race committee was fortunate that the rain stopped before the Flash O'Fire, always well up, assumed command at the 6th and under a driving ride, outfinished *Sonatine. The latter made his bid coming into the last hurdle. Teddy Briar was rated off the early pace and improved his position in the stretch drive. *Allflor gained ground in the final stages. Partly Cloudy showed an even effort. Blue Teal had early speed. Flag Ho established pace until the 6th. *Friese was never a factor. Scratched: *Scotch Reel, Arctic Fox, Epic Chance, Cherwell, Magic Price.

Jockey E. Carter was still handling the rider's position.

Mrs. E. duPont Weir's *Scotch Reel and Jockey J. Snyder went to the front soon after the start with *Heron Lore right in behind them. At the 3/4-mark, the order was still *Scotch Reel and *Heron Lore with Jockey C. Harr in 3rd place on Samuel R. Fry's Epic Chance. Another check at the mile showed the 3 front horses to be the same but at the head of the stretch, Jockey Carter moved out ahead of *Scotch Reel and Jockey F. D. Adams was 3rd on R. K. Mellon's Trout Brook. In 4th place was Jockey A. P. Smithwick on owner-trainer W. B. Cocks' Extra. *Heron Lore continued to improve his position in the final stages and won by 3 lengths, Trout Brook placing ahead of Extra with *Scotch Reel 4th.

The last race of the afternoon was The Gladstone, about 6 furlongs on 1st race. Many of the spectators were exhibitors at The National Horse Show and as Saturday was junior day, they were free of the ring for the time being; this time being spent at Far Hills.

The Season's Best Over Brush

Elkridge and Oedipus Lead 'Chasers
In Season's Racing With Darjeeling
And Trough Hill Not Far Behind

Frank Talmadge Phelps

As the steeplechasing season draws to a close, two jumpers stand out above all others on the major tracks. One is the aged veteran Elkridge, as fine a horse as ever sailed over an obstacle. The other is the newcomer Oedipus, whose breeding suggests he would have done well at almost any task.

Until he wrenched his knee, Kent Miller's Elkridge was enjoying one of his best seasons. He won the Georgetown, Indian River and Saratoga Steeplechase Handicaps; placed in the Meadow Brook and Broad Hollow; and showed in the Beverwyck. Out of the money only once in seven starts, he added $29,925 to his already bulging bank account.

Elkridge, a twelve-year-old bay gelding by Mate—Best by Test, by Black Toney, has been around so long he has become virtually an institution. It is difficult to speak of him without superlatives. How he would stack up against the greater jumpers of the past is purely a matter for speculation. But his accomplishments have made him the Man o'War of the steeplechasers.

Bred by J. F. Flanagan, Elkridge has, at one time or another in his long career, captured practically every major brush feature in the country, many of them two, three or four times. Ever since his four-year-old season, he has ranked at or near the top among the jumpers. His total earnings of $225,055 is a world record for a 'chaser.

The Miller gelding's sire, Mate, took the Breeders' Futurity, Champagne, Stanley Produce, Kenner and Preakness Stakes, Walden, Spalding Lowe Jenkins, Bowie and Bowie Thanksgiving Handicaps, American Derby, Arlington Classic and $297,360 in this country. In the Classic he set a new Arlington record of 2:02 2-5 for the mile and a quarter. Mate also raced in England, where he was victorious in the Challenge Stakes and gained the equivalent of $3,940.

Aside from Elkridge, Mate has been a sharp stud disappointment. His only other stakes winners have been Sassy Mate, which triumphed in the 1939 Dearborn Handicap; Albatross, which annexed the Hialeah Juvenile and Narragansett Claiming Stakes; and the steeplechaser Galley Boy, which acquired the 1946 Battleship Steeplechase Handicap.

Elkridge is a half brother to Kennebunk, winner of the 1946 Hendrie Steeplechase Handicap; and to Chesapeake, victor in the Belmont Spring Maiden and Glendale. His dam, the 100 percent producer Best by Test, is a half sister to Good Judgment, dam of The Sheriff, which captured a division of the 1945 King's Plate Trial.

Mrs. Ogden Phipps' Oedipus has started twice as many times this year as Elkridge, so it is not surprising that he has taken more stakes decisions and earned more money for the season than his older rival. But he has been far less consistent.

Oedipus, a four-year-old brown gelding by Blue Larkspur—Be Like Mom, by *Sickle, has triumphed in the Aqueduct Spring Maiden, Shilalah, Broad Hollow and Brook Steeplechase Handicaps. In the Shilalah he scored by six lengths while setting a new Saratoga record of 4:10 2-5 for the infield course of about two miles. He also placed in the Beverwyck, Grand National and Temple Gwathmey; and showed in the Saratoga. His season's earnings amount to $40,450.

Bred by the late Colonel E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour Farm, Oedipus is a full brother to But Why Not, the best three-year-old filly of 1947. This fine mare annexed the Pimlico Oaks, Arlington Classic, Acorn and Alabama Stakes, Arlington Matron, Beldame, Firenze and Top Flight Handicaps, and $295,155. Oedipus' grandam, the tiny Black Helen, acquired the Maryland Handicap, Coaching Club American Oaks, Florida and American Derbies. Black Helen is a full sister to the stakes winners Big Hurry, also the dam of Be Fearless, Bridal Flower and The Admiral; and to Bimelech, the best of his day at two and three. She is also a half sister to the stakes victors Biologist and Bee Ann Mac; and to Baby League, the dam of Busher, Mr. Busher and Striking.

Oedipus is inbred with two free generations to Black Helen's sire, Black Toney. The latter is the grandsire of Blue Larkspur, which got Mrs. Phipps' gelding.

Blue Larkspur was the best of his age at three and four. He won the Saratoga Special, Belmont Juvenile, National Stallion, Belmont and Withers Stakes, Stars and Stripes Handicap, Arlington Classic, Arlington Cup and $272,070. In the Stars and Stripes he set a new Arlington record of 1:49 2-5 for the mile and a furlong.

To the end of 1949, Blue Larkspur's get had gained 1,095 victories and $3,048,016. His stakes winners include Brooklyn, Myrtlewood, Blessed Again, Boxthorn, Kentucky Blues, Patty Cake, Sky Larking, Be Blue, Cardinalis, Lightspur, Kings Blue, Blue Delight, Boysy ($112,760), Ocean Blue, Painted Veil, Best Seller, Blue Swords, Our Page, etc.

In addition to Oedipus, Blue Larkspur has another good jumper in action this season in Larky Day, which captured the Glendale Steeplechase Handicap by 25 lengths. Larky Day took the Pimlico Spring Maiden last year. It should be noted, however, that he accumulated most of his total earnings of $122,702 on the flat, where he triumphed in the Brandywine Handicap and two runnings of the Boardwalk.

Blue Larkspur's only other 'chasing stakes victor has been Blue Funk, which annexed the 1944 Cagliostro Hurdle Handicap.

Aside from Elkridge and Oedipus, there have been no truly outstanding brush performers on the major tracks this season. But Darjeeling and Trough Hill should be mentioned as a cut above the average.

Mrs. Esther duPont Weir's Darjeeling, a seven-year-old brown gelding by *Bahram—Chin Up, by Mad Hatter, has made only four starts during the year. He annexed the Charles L. Appleton and Meadow Brook Steeplechase Handicaps; placed in the Georgetown; and fell in the Indian River. He has earned $16,200 this season.

Mrs. Stephen C. Clark Jr.'s Trough Hill, an eight-year-old bay gelding by *Tourist II—Rolling Princess, by *Royal Canopy, has started five times. He acquired the Grand National Steeplechase Handicap; placed in the Brook; showed in the Broad Hollow and Chevy Chase; and fell in the International. His earnings for the season total $20,700.

The following handicap represents this observer's opinion of the ranking of the year's stakes winners over the brush on the major American tracks.

- 159 Elkridge, b. g., 12, by Mate—Best by Test, by Black Toney.
- 158 Oedipus, br. g., 4, by Blue Larkspur—Be Like Mom, by *Sickle.
- 141 Darjeeling, br. g., 7, by *Bahram—Chin Up, by Mad Hatter.
- Trough Hill, b. g., 8, by *Tourist II—Rolling Princess, by *Royal Canopy.
- 138 Larky Day, br. g., 9, by Blue Larkspur—Fair Day, by Man o'War.
- 137 Hot, b. g., 6, by Teufel—Sun Rouge, by *Sun Briar.
- Port Raider, ch. g., 6, by Port au Prince—Cindy, by Stimulus.
- The Heir, gr. g., 7, by *Gino—Princess Alice, by *Teddy.
- 135 *Kipper, b. g., 7, by Wavetop—Toy Fish, by Yutol.
- Phiblant (ex Philblant), b. g., 6, by *Challenger II—*Lola Montez II, by *Stefan the Great.
- Pontius Pilate, ch. g., 4, by Pilate—Storming, by *Ksar.
- 134 Adaptable, b. g., 9, by *Blenheim II—Black Queen, by Pompey.

White-Marzani Duo Win Two At Laurel

Hot Holds Lead Over Monkey Wrench
To Win Chevy Chase On Laurel's
Curtain-Closing Program

William Jaeger

The combination of Trainer Arthur White and Jockey Danny Marzani continued its winning ways in the steeplechase competition at Laurel Race Course on October 30 when Mill River Stable's Monkey Wrench, conditioned by White and ridden by Marzani, whipped 4 foes in the about 2 miles, 13-jump infield offering.

The pair, highly successful with the jumpers belonging to the Brookmeade Stable, has won 2 races and finished 2nd twice at the session.

Only 5 started in the hedge-hopping affair and Monkey Wrench drove home a length and a half ahead of the heavily-favored Hampton Roads, belonging to Montpelier. Twenty lengths to the rear of the choice in third place was J. W. Dwyer's Lively Man while F. W. Bennett's Peter de Boots wound up 4th, another 50 lengths to the rear.

Herbert A. Dunn's Leche Hombre, winner of the only 2 claiming races through the field at this point, lost Apprentice Jockey Charles Harr at the 3rd brush. The rider escaped injury.

Hampton Roads, driven to the front by Pat Smithwick on the backstretch the 1st time, led until rounding the upper turn the last time. At that point, Marzani brought Monkey Wrench up from 2nd position and the 2 leaders raced head and head until just before the final obstacle. Coming to the brush, Monkey Wrench gained a slight lead from the outside and widened it in the run to the finish line.

The time over the fast turf course was 3:59 3-5 and the winner carried 147 pounds.

Hunches are a common ailment with most horse players. Most times, the hunch in a race is anything but a favorite but on other occasions it is the selection of more than a handful.

Such was the case at the Laurel Race Course on November 1 when Maryland's lone steeplechase stake of the year, the $7,500 added Chevy Chase Steeplechase Handicap at about 2 miles, was the headline event on the curtain-closing program.

The mercury was dancing around 85 that afternoon and everyone was literally "steaming". In the Chevy Chase, was a 6-year-old bay jumper bearing the red and blue livery of Rigan McKinney. His name was Hot and he was just that as the race was run.

The three-horse entry of Mrs. Stephen C. Clark Jr.'s Trough Hill, Isador Bieber's Semper Eadem and Rokeby Stable's Genanoke was held as a 9-10 choice by the throng of 10,218. It was the consensus that the Jack Skinner-trained trio was well nigh unbeatable but Hot had other ideas.

Jockey Frank Adams never left the issue in doubt in the 34th running of the Chevy Chase. He shoved Hot into an immediate lead when Eddie Blind started the race and the son of Teufel and Sun Rouge, carrying 142 pounds, led by a comfortable margin over the 13 jumps to rack up a five-lengths verdict over Mill River Stable's Monkey Wrench, a long shot. Trough Hill, winner of the Grand National at Belmont Park, closed strongly from far back to be 3rd, two lengths off Monkey Wrench and a nose in advance of his running mate, Semper Eadem.

After that came Lowry Watkins' Tourist List, Genanoke, and Courtney Burton's Lock and Key. The latter and then Genanoke pressed Hot's pace early but were tired horses at the end.

Burton announced prior to the race that the Chevy Chase would be Lock and Key's last start and that the mare would be used for breeding purposes in the future.

Hot, winner of the Harbor Hill earlier in the season, was well remembered by the Laurel fans and paid a good price. The McKinney horse had won several events at the Washington Boulevard plant last fall, a fact that wasn't forgotten by the Maryland fans trying to pick a winner.

The course was fast and Hot was timed in 3:55 2-5, five seconds off the track mark set by Ahmisk in 1942. He picked up $6,235 as his end of the $9,030 gross purse.

McKinney, a member of the board of directors at Laurel, was present after the running to accept a trophy from S. Bryce Wing, Laurel's vice-president. Rigan, very modestly dressed in a light gray summer suit, immediately turned it over to Jockey Adams, who finally took it after a little persuasion.

SHOW CIRCUITS

Downington

The last of the outdoor shows of Chester County, Pa. was held on Saturday, October 28, at Ingleside Farms, Downington, Pa. It was a beautiful day and all of the local horse show fans that weren't at Harrisburg turned out to make this a most successful show. The Downington Visiting Nurse Ass'n. and the American Legion, Post 475, were the beneficiaries.

There was no championship award, but if there had been the Lockhart girls would have been right up there. Their two green horses, Valley Breeze and Double Scotch accounted for a ribbon of some color in every class they were in. Diana Major, a handsome bay mare belonging to Henry Warner, Jr. took numerous awards too. She was ridden by a young friend of Buzz Warner's in the children's classes and by Buzz in the working classes. This show retires her to the nursery until she foals in May. Timber Maid, a young daughter of the famous sire Timber Boy, was shown for the first time and gave a fine account of herself. She will be hard to heat come next spring.

This was a fitting climax to a long season of fine shows and everyone went home with "see you early next spring" instead of good-byes.—Contributed by Elizabeth Von Tress, Chronicle Correspondent.

Franklin Junior

The outstanding rider in the Franklin Junior Horse Show, held Oct. 8 at Franklin, Tenn., was easily 6-year-old Miss Judy Kinnard who won the blue in junior horseman-ship.

The show was dreamed up by Mrs. Fred Schell and carried into the realms of reality with the co-operation of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Tanner, in whose private ring it was held.

This was the first show of its kind in Franklin. There was no admission charge for spectators and no entry fees for contestants. Yet there were beautifully printed ribbons to the 5th place and many trophies, including a large number of horse books given by Miss Margaret Lindsey Warden.

Children rode or vanned their mounts from all around the countryside, from points even 20 miles away. Probably the youngest rider was little Frank Schell who made his first appearance in the show ring (at the ripe age of 4 years) as Robin Hood, to take 4th ribbon in the costume ride.

Another show is planned for next year with jumping classes being added to the prize list.—Contributed by Margaret Phipps Leonard.

Fresno District Fair

The Horse Show at Fresno, Calif., held in connection with the Fresno District Fair, has shown a constant improvement in each succeeding year and Oct. 4-8 this year was no exception. While the number of entries was not so large as in some of the other shows, the quality of the horses was just as good as in any of the other shows on the circuit.

Ira Sharrah, the manager, has always endeavored to make the show a pleasant one for the exhibitor, and there is every reason to expect a bigger and better show in 1951.

The $750 jumper stake was won by that good campaigner, Coin Collector, owned and ridden by Mrs. Don Dodge. A close 2nd was Remember Me, also ridden by Mrs. Dodge. This mare, recently purchased by the Dodges, will be a hard one to beat on the circuit next year. The proof of that statement is that she landed in the 2nd spot in this stake and also was 3rd in the 5'-0" class. Until these two events, her new owner had never ridden her in a class before. It therefore seems obvious that this combination will be hard to beat when the horse and rider get accustomed to each other's ways.

Carbon Copy, owned by Miss Peggy Platz and ridden by Mrs. Dodge, annexed the $750 hunter stake. Carbon Copy put in a good go and won by a fair margin, but the jumping of the other horses was not up to their best efforts, the 2nd and 3rd horses each making at least one jumping mistake.—Contributed

Pennsylvania National

The Harrisburg Horse Show Committee can certainly credit itself with another great show. Every division was filled with quantity and quality; and, as usual, the hunters and jumpers were brimming. But the greatest asset this year, of course, was the addition of the new United States Horse Show Team to the already colorful international competition. It really was a thrill to see our riders in the beautiful opening parade, and exhibitors cheered just as loud as the spectators each time a member of our team entered the ring.

In its first show the United States Team consisting of Mr. Arthur McCashin, Mrs. Carol Durand, and Miss Norma Mathews made it very clear that it would provide keen competition for the other 5 teams from England, Canada, Mexico, Chile, and Ireland. The English and Canadian teams like the United States are all amateurs and are not part of any military unit.

Everyone had to catch his breath in hearing that the United States team had won the International Low Score Competition. It really was some fete considering that they had only a month to actually work together while the other teams have been together for several months and even years. The main hindrance to our team seemed to be time. In the first low score competition neither Mexico nor the United States had any faults but time counted and we lost by 3 seconds; and in the second low score competition both the Irish and the United States had 4 faults but we lost again by a matter of seconds.

The audience went completely wild when Country Boy expertly ridden by Miss Norma Mathews completed the course with no faults to tie Mexico's Altano in the international competition for the Governor's Challenge Trophy. In the jump off it cheered just as loudly even though Country Boy knocked down the 2nd fence and Altano went clean.

Due to an unfortunate accident to Captain Mullins during schooling, Capt. Tubridy and Capt. Magee had to ride the three horses in the remaining classes except in the third low score event which was a team class. Needing a third rider, the Irish asked Hugh Wiley and his Hollandia of the United States B team if he would ride for them. Of course, he obliged and went clean to help them beat the United States team which was second. Captain Tubridy and Captain Magee also accounted for the second low score event of pair jumping.

Mexico's winning 5 of the 10 international events surprised no one, but many were surprised to hear that Col. Mariles wasn't going to ride and that he was letting a young lady, 2nd Lt. Eva Valdez Ramos, ride his wonder horse, Arete. There was no doubt after the show that she could ride him and do it well.

The English gentlemen certainly gave us many thrills, but the best class was the in-and-out when there were three jump-offs between Mexico's Arete and Norteno and England's Craven A. After Arete had only 4 faults and Norteno had 8 on the third jump-off, young Peter Craven piloted Craven A over the high course with no faults. England won three of the 10 classes for the international teams.

In the civilian competition which was equally as keen, there were two riders who monopolized the tricolors. Peggy Mills and Cappy Smith won three and two respectively to account for 5 of 8 presented.

The green division points were pretty well divided, but Morton W. Smith's 4-year-old Royal Chief won 2 blues and a 2nd, to be awarded the championship, while the reserve went to Robert J. Burke's Psychic Sally, ably ridden by Mrs. Sue Schley. It was interesting to note that both entries hail from Middleburg, Virginia.

Cappy's Jerry's Pride completely took over the conformation division by winning 5 blues and a 2nd in the stake with Fairview Farm's Golden Hill putting up one of his truly brilliant rounds to win the stake class and go on to get reserve. He was beautifully ridden by Miss Peggy Mills who shared him with Mr. Donavan for the Corinthian class.

The open classes were jammed with entries having nearly 30 in every class and so close was the competition that the championship was won with 9 points. There wasn't a horse that won more than one class. That grand old campaigner, Cannabiss, won the always exciting in-and-out, and last year's champion, All Afire, won the pen class. The very difficult F. E. I. was won by Black Watch, and that great little mare, Circus Rose, saved herself for the stake class and got just enough points to tie Black Watch for the championship. In the jump off, Joe Green gave her a little extra encouragement, and she won it making Black Watch reserve for Mrs. Don J. Ferraro.

The working hunters really opened their eyes wide when they saw course K set up. The last fence was, as usual, the imitation stone wall, but the blocks on top weren't lying flat; they were standing on end and made the wall 4'-5". The height of the fence wasn't discouraging, but it knocked down very easily and the protests were loud and strong against it; however, the blocks stayed there for the first three classes and in each of them only three horses got over the wall without a knock-down. After that, the blocks not only went down but completely off.

Elizabeth C. Bosley's well-mannered Count Stefan put up an outstanding round to win the handy class, but it was Mrs. Don J. Ferraro's good moving, consistent performer, Sombrero, who won 3 blues and a 2nd to get another championship for his rider, Peggy Mills.

The children's classes were really a big improvement over the previous years. The entries were many and good. Miss Peggy Augustus' Herodtie won the big children's working hunters class and Miss Mildred Kindlan won both horsemanship classes over jumps. The girls still kept command when Miss Barbara Staley rode Mrs. W. G. Boyce's Honey Bee to victory in the children's F. E. I. class. Second in this class went to Carl J. Meister Jr. on his own Golden Honors who also was 2nd to Hugh Wiley in the Olympic Tryouts.

The Pennsylvania National closed this year with another very successful show for its history. Surely everyone left with fondest hopes of returning for a great time next year.

Pittsfield

On September 3rd threatening clouds dispersed in time for the beginning of the annual Pittsfield (Maine) Horse Show, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of that town. Over a 1,000 spectators gathered at Clanchette Field to witness a very enjoyable show with Mr. Maurice Tomlinson again acting as judge. Robert Shaw was ringmaster and Harold Crossman, Master of ceremonies.

The shows in this state are so widely distributed that vanning and stabling is often times impossible, but a number of horses as far off as Fort Fairfield in Aroostook County showed up at Pittsfield, which helped to make this show very successful. If the shows in Maine continue to improve as rapidly as they have in the past year, we might look forward to some keen competition and a great deal of enjoyment in the years to come. Mr. Tomlinson has brought up from Kentucky and sold throughout the State some very fine show horses and their popularity is increasing every year. Many of these horses were sold at his recent fall auction in Portland and we'll be looking forward to seeing them in the rings next season.—Contributed, by Mrs. F. H. Giddings, Chronicle Correspondent.

Toronto Junior Fall

The annual Toronto Junior Fall Horse Show was held on the Eglington Hunt property, Todmorden, Ontario, Canada, on October 21st. Both the show ring and the outside course were put to use. In the working hunter event, contestants could take any 10 jumps they chose. Most avoided the rail fences with single and double ditches. The youngsters made an excellent job of showing the handiness and ability of their horse and good even pace was the order of the day.

The open equitation for the Corbet Cup was an evenly matched competition among some very finished young riders. Cecil Phillips was the eventual winner over Pat Laurie.

The judges, Mrs. D. G. Rockwell and Stewart Treviranus each rode 2 of the 4 best in the pleasure hacks and after comparing notes decided on Sarah Bladen's Feather, Elizabeth Miller's Kapanga was 2nd and Mary Jane Corbet's Coed Coch Meteor 3rd. By coincidence all 3 were greys shading down in size to the 13 hand Meteor. This pony was imported from Wales last spring.

Members of the Eglington Branch of the Pony Club took this opportunity of making a presentation to Mrs. Rockwell of an engraved silver cigarette box. Mrs. Rockwell, who has resigned as District commissioner of this branch after 10 years, was entirely taken by surprise at this splendid gesture and will long treasure it as a token of happy hours and friendships made through the Pony Club.

The hunter championship was awarded to Heather McLean's By Goom over Kapanga. Feather won the hack championship with Coed Coch Meteor, reserve.—Contributed by Broadview, Chronicle Correspondent.

Hunter Trials At Goldens Bridge

Amateurs and Professionals Work Together As Monmouth Boy Wins Goldens Bridge Trials; Spring Valley Duke Takes Hound Race

Frank D. Hawkins

Good horses with excellent performances plus ideal conditions, when coupled with a beautiful setting such as exists at the Rock Ridge estate of Mr. and Mrs. R. Lawrence Parish and the Meadow Lane estate of Mr. and Mrs. Carlo M. Paterno in the Goldens Bridge hunting country, can only result in one thing—perfection.

These Hunter Trials and Hound Races conducted by the Northern Westchester Chapter of the Professional Horsemen's Association in conjunction with the Members of the Goldens Bridge Hounds left nothing to be desired and will be long remembered for the good sportsmanship and harmony prevailing and the resultant excellent day of sport produced.

When amateurs and professionals work together with such remarkable co-operation and co-ordination the future welfare of equine activity in this country is assured. Starting the day with an overcast sky and eight well filled classes and the hound race ahead of us, we were all a little anxious as to the ultimate results. However, by the time the horses were warmed up the weather had decided to do the same thing and ideal conditions existed for the whole day. This course is all over jumps actually used when this section is hunted and consequently is a real test for a hunter embracing as it does up-hill and down-hill jumps, a natural in and out, a couple of long stretches for showing off a horse's galloping power, several sharp turns to bring out handiness and control, and finally a good gallop up a long steep hill to the judges' stand to emphasize the condition of each mount's wind.

The lightweight class brought forth a nice lot of breezy looking horses and several good performances, tops of which was Secret Wire, owned by Mrs. Bernard F. Gimbel and ridden by Allan King. This is a very nice chestnut mare only four years old and certain of a great future.

Heading the middleweights was Mr. Philip Bondy's King Dora, an anything but effeminate chestnut gelding who had a fine round under the able handling of Mike Hines, one of Ireland's favorite sons. Second went to Betts Nashem's Monmouth Boy, owner up, an all around good gray who improved marvelously as the day wore on and was eventually pinned with a well deserved championship. Third place was occupied by R. L. Parish's Granard, who just nosed out Carla Paterno's pet mount The Viking with Larry Mallon up.

Amongst the heavyweights, although fewer in number the competition was every bit as keen and the final result was Robert Birch's Golden Boy with Bill Howland aboard, getting the nod over Mrs. R. P. Fleming's good gray Cloudy, ably ridden by Ann Fleming. The latter horse also improved considerably as the day wore on and finished up reserve champion to Monmouth Boy.

The amateur class contained most of the entries of the previous three events and tested the judges, Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald of Syosset, L. I. to their fullest ability. However the consensus of opinion seemed to agree with their verdict of placing Monmouth Boy over Cloudy with Granard in the third spot over Golden Boy.

The ladies class again showed the general consistency of the first flight horses and resulted in Cloudy edging out Monmouth Boy with Secret Wire and Golden Boy taking third and fourth.

Eight really workmanlike hunt teams paraded around the beautiful pasture lots and all gave good performances on their long and arduous course afterwards, with the judges placing the Goldens Bridge Hounds No. 1 team of Father Del Russo, Dick Parish, and Dan McKeon in the first position to retire the beautiful trophy donated by Mr. Richard I. Robinson M. F. H. several years ago. Second by inches only was the Fairfield County team of Betts Nashem on Monmouth Boy, Ann Fleming on Cloudy and Emerson Burr on his big gray heavyweight. Third went to the Fairfield and Westchester team and 4th to Mrs. B. F. Gimbel's trio.

At this point one of our "young" bloods Bob Rainbow, who is seventy-seven years young, ascended the judges' tally-ho and drawing the crowd around him auctioned off the chances of the fourteen hounds in the hound race. According to the bidding it seemed to be in the bag for the Goldens Bridge pack but so often do the affairs of mice and men "go aft agley," (and I suppose that includes fox hounds) when two far visitors from Mr. Robert Fairburn's Spring Valley pack in Mendham, N. J. stole the show by finishing first and third, very ably handled by Fred Carrier and Alex Forman. Goldens Bridge just managed to get in between them for the second berth.

Misney Champion Carroll Hound Hunt Trials

The annual Hunter Trials of the Carroll Hounds were combined with the landowner's party at John Carroll's farm in East Chatham, New York on Sunday, October 15th. A beautiful day resulted in a good turn out of farmers and friends of the hunt and luncheon was served on the terrace of the Master's house, which offered a fine view of the courses.

The judges were Colonel J. Hanchet-Taylor, Ex-M. F. H., Fairfield County Hounds, and Dr. Richard T. Gilyard, Master of the Middlebury Hunt. The Hunter Trials Committee consisted of Mrs. Gordon Cox, George Galloway, Hugh McB. Johnson, James Rooney and Sydney R. Smith. All riders were amateurs and members of the Carroll field.

The "Governor" J. Harry Cox Challenge Trophy for working hunters, offered in memory of his father by W. Gordon Cox and placed in competition for the first time this year was won by Hugh Johnston's Misney which also won the championship of the Trials on a point basis with reserve going to James A. Rooney's Charley Horse.

The girls of the Emma Willard, coached by that excellent horsewoman, Jane Lawyer Gottschalk and always prominent in the field, won the Hunt Team class and took many other ribbons and trophies back to their stable in Troy. An added class for hunter type colts and fillies was

Snowy Day Made Oaks Hunt Hunter Trials Champion

Lois Meistrell

Over 200 entries and ideal Autumn weather marked one of the most successful hunter trials of The Oaks Hunt to date. The trials were held, as usual, at the kennels on Valley Road, Manhasset, L. I. on October 29.

Judges for the event were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carver of New York City and Mr. Charles E. Bernuth of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.

The hunter championship was awarded to Mrs. Frank Fox's grey gelding Snowy Day with the reserve going to Joan Prytherch's Unearthly Hour. Sara Ann Cavanagh won the junior championship with Blackout over Joan Prytherch's Unearthly Hour. One of the most hotly contested events was the jumper championship, which was won by Mrs. R. B. Hult's Gray Frog, ridden by Lester Bovee of Lake Success. Billy Do, owned by Pierre Dauvergne, and Sol Shapiro's Panacea tied for reserve, with Billy Do winning on the toss.

The show provided an opportunity for many of The Oaks subscribers to try out new horses. Notable among these were Buckingham recently acquired by Mitchell Klupt of Great Neck, which placed in the ribbons in nearly every jumper event and Jumping Jive, formerly owned by the Thomas School of Horsemanship and purchased from them by Ted Lord of Garden City, which was in the ribbons and won the open jumper class.

English Artist Eyes American Hunting

Comparison Between Sport of Foxhunting In Two Countries Finds Much Variety Particularly In Hounds and Their Characteristics

Michael Lyne

Editor's Note: From October 30th through November 11, Michael Lyne, the noted English artist whose foxhunting water colors made such an impression here last year is having an exhibition. His pictures will be displayed at the galleries of Scott and Fowles at 745 5th Ave., New York and will include many of the paintings he did during his visit last year to hunting countries all over the United States. As one writer said of Michael Lyne, "He knows foxhunting, not merely as a picturesque subject, for his brush, but also as something he participates in, something with an excitement and exhilaration all its own."

His painting of the Warrenton Hunt, belonging to Russell Arundel, M. F. H. and kindly loaned by Mr. Arundel for reproduction on the cover of The Chronicle, this week, is typical of the fine series he did of American countryside and its pink-coated followers.

This is for me a grand opportunity to thank all those Masters of hounds and others for their wonderful hospitality and kindness to me when painting foxhunting pictures in America last year. It would have been nice to have accepted more offers of mounts and to have forgotten that work was the first object of my visit, but having only a low opinion of my horsemanship, and a wholesome dread of solid timber, I felt discretion to be the better part of valour, and so with my programme of work completed, and also with some typical days' hunting from the backs of extremely good horses, with gratitude I feel that another step has been taken in my foxhunting education.

The subject of hounds is dear to me, and the way in which they hunt their quarry a source of continual interest and speculation, and one wonders if Meynel were alive again in this period of history, when the English countryside presents a picture of, not so much rural peace as agricultural activity, might he not consider sacrificing a little of the pace of his hounds.

Meynel and his contemporaries would find that even the best and bravest horsemen, when continually held up by wire, must gallop hard when hounds are only running slowly, and even then stand little chance of staying with them. This state of affairs in actual fact may not be displeasing to many who ride and are content with the sight of a galloping figure in front instead of the near presence of hounds. In America at first I found myself wondering if some packs were too fast for their country, and whether most of the Field was contenting itself with riding after the man in front. Anyway, something of an achievement has occurred here, since the American hound has a superb nose and a great turn of speed, and with all plenty of tongue. Having made remarks to this effect at home, I have been asked how they would get on over here. Perhaps this is where we come to the main difference between the English and the American hound. In order to show sport to a large Field of horsemen, whose main desire was a quick find, and then plenty of hard galloping and jumping, hounds had to be bred to drive after their fox when they were able, the merest whiff of fox made them gallop, and they were prepared instantly to accept the help of their huntsman. In the Shires it was a rare thing to see a tail hound; they ran altogether, snatching the lead from one another when the scent served, and when their huntsman wanted to get nearer his fox, or perhaps, on occasion, farther from his Field, hounds did not mind being taken off their noses, but went with him at a fast pace, until encouraged to get their heads down and hunt on. Present circumstances do not permit so much of that sort of hunting practised in the Shires at the height of their excellence, but the character of the English hound would enable him to be hunted anywhere in such a manner.

Perhaps there is some similarity between the work of pre-Meynel packs and the American hounds of today—each hound concentrating on the scent in his nostrils and not on his position in the pack, yet the common purpose of each enabling them to run as a pack. I do not imagine that the American hound likes interference in his work, and noticed many hounds, when a huntsman got hold of them at a check to make his cast, which seemed to be under the impression that this was the end of that particular hunt, and the huntsman was either taking them home or going to find another fox.

I saw a striking example of the different styles of hunting in a pack of mixed English and American hounds—a part of the pack pushed a fox out of covert, and were away with him a quarter of a mile before the remainder left covert. The American hounds amongst the latter, came out of covert hunting the line accurately and with plenty of music, being quite content with the scent, whereas the English hounds with them went to the cry of the hounds in the distance, without, of course, throwing their tongues (and incidentally were pointed out to me as being mute like all English hounds!).

The ability of your hounds to hunt a line for miles over thick carpets of fallen leaves shows what superb noses they have, neither do conditions of drought or frost seem to worry them, and I heard less frequently than in this country the remark "not much scent today". In case it should be thought that I am being disloyal to my own side, perhaps I ought to say that in spite of a very real admiration for the hunting abilities of your hounds, I still prefer our own.

I was surprised that with the season likely to be fairly short, owing to climatic conditions, more hours are not spent in the field on hunting days—there must be an explanation for it, but I couldn't find it. Perhaps we stay out with the grimmer intention of lessening the fox population, the necessity of which does not hold good in America. With these short days in the field, it was difficult to compare the staying abilities of the two sorts of hounds, but members of the pack which got away on deer, and were hunting for two or three days, shows there can be no lack of stamina.

The deer problem seems to be a very real one in some countries, and it will be interesting to know what effect is achieved by nauseating the worst offenders with musk. All hounds love the smell of a deer, but the fact that English hounds are more amenable to discipline, and can be broken from this form of riot, might be a solution if the situation became worse.

Since my visit to America I am often asked how the sport "out there" compares with our own. The question usually emanates from those, who, like myself, previously had visualized the chase taking place in either rugged mountains or on a limitless prairie, whereas of course, any country I visited could find its counterpart in this island.

After my first day in America, I pondered on the question of the difference between the foxhunting in both countries, and found a major one. With us, the interest in the hunt is not limited to those actually riding to hounds. A great army of all ages, in motor cars, on bicycles and afoot, gather at the meet and continue to follow hounds all day. Road menders and others anticipate the day's fun, and plan their duties for the most promising localities and little work, but much listening is done that day. The whole area in which the hunt is operating, is on the qui vive, and when the day is over, an echo of the sport lives on in the animated discussion of the local inhabitants.

We are fortunate in that the sport is shared among so many, and in the increasing number of farmers (I believe we have a different meaning for that title here—anyway I mean a man who either owns or rents his land) who hunt and care for foxhound puppies, until they are old enough to join the pack. This "walking" is a great advantage for foxhounds, since they get to know the sights and sounds of the countryside, and are consequently less shy than those brought up in kennel. Another difference which an Englishman or Irishman would notice is in the "auxiliary music" of the chase—the huntsman's voice and horn—two things which both hounds and the Field pay attention to and derive pleasure from. A picturesque thing is your Cow horn, but it didn't stir me like a copper horn. I feel that any American would here reply "The music of our hounds is sufficient" and, by Gad, what a cry they have.

The first pack I heard, the Golden Bridge, speaking to the drag of a fox, was sweet thunder indeed, and with all other packs also the depth and volume of cry was terrific.

No doubt, the biggest difference of all with regard to a day's sport in our respective countries, is that you are not particularly keen to kill foxes, and we consider it a bad thing if hounds do not account for their quarry. Conditions here are, of

West Hills Holds Pre-Season Trials For Green Hunters

Jacqueline Wilson

A pre-season hunter trials on October 1st marked the initial get-together for the 1950-51 season of the West Hills Hunt Club. With the trials open to members only, and the emphasis on schooling green hunters, there was a small number of horses showing.

To keep the show moving at a rapid pace Judges Tim Durant and Col. Davidson decided to judge all the horses for conformation before the first class. Although no prizes were awarded for conformation alone, the cynosure of all eyes was Mrs. Libby Swift's handsome bay, Russ Creek.

Two large fields connected by a somewhat tricky in and out, proved to be an excellent schooling course, with lots of ground for galloping on. Although the jumps did not exceed 3'-6" the riders were faced with a large variety of somewhat difficult obstacles, including a water jump, Irish bank, hog back, stone wall and several other types, most of which are found in our hunting country.

Silver Lining, a gray Thoroughbred mare owned by Mrs. Marge Kessler was outstanding among the new green horses. Mrs. Kessler went home with a well deserved blue in the handy hunter class, a 2nd in the green hunter and ladies' hunter classes.

Roz Johnson's Talisman fenced nicely maintaining a perfect hunting pace to capture the ladies' hunter class.

In the working hunter class, Mrs. Simpson, piloted by Champ Hough, owned jointly by Ronald Reagan and Nino Pipitone, turned in the smoothest performance of the day and pranced cockily out of the ring with her first blue. Champ also rode his own veteran Thoroughbred hunter Craigwood Park, to a win in the open hunter class. Craigwood Park, I understand, will be going east this spring.

M. F. H. Percy Dunn's showing of hounds was highlighted by his introduction of a new couple from Orange County in Virginia. The pack now consists of eight couples, keen and fit, and as eager to get hunting again as we are. The West Hill opening hunt will be held at Calabases the end of October, over 2,000 acres of well panelled hunting country, just recently acquired.

Trust Fund Wins Championship At Limestone Trials

Elizabeth McAllister

The Limestone Creek Hunter Trials, on Sunday, October 22, went off very well. The day was ideal, sunny and not too cold. The new location at Elk Horn Springs is excellent from both participant and spectator points of view. The course is in a hollow and all the jumps can be easily seen.

One might really have termed it ladies' day as they claimed all top honors except in the pair class. Mrs. Fred Taylor's big, easy fencing chestnut, Trust Fund, piled up points for an easy championship. Mrs. Taylor did an excellent job of riding despite the handicap of a broken finger. Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Fonda's handsome black mare, Yeomanette showed herself as a consistent fencer over a course, as she is in the field, when she came in for the reserve.

The highlight of a show was the experimental flat race and it was just what the name implies experimental and strictly amateur.

SUMMARIES

Lightweight hunters, up to 125 lbs.—1. Peter Drever, Ted Roulston; 2. Yeomanette, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Fonda; 3. Propaganda, L. E. Doyle; 4. Beau Soleil, Mrs. H. Duane Clark.

English Artist

course, very different, foxes being numerous and a potential source of annoyance to some. Knowing a little about the fox, and having seen plenty in America in parts where they are reputed to be scarce, it occurred to me that not only was the raw material there, but that hounds killed more often than was realized. Was it a coincidence that on quite a number of occasions, I noticed foxes running in pairs, not always close together, but not far apart? It happens sometimes in the breeding season here, but is uncommon at other times.

The little grey fox seems to be a nuisance—has anyone tried running a terrier or two with the pack, as they do here in big woodlands where foxes are inclined to hang about in thick brambles?

American timber fences, and the speed with which they are negotiated, have always astonished the English, but of course if you were to jump them at our pace, hounds would be on their own most of the day. It was interesting to notice the small amount of falls that, in spite of the fact that you jump perhaps more fences in half an hour than we do all day. No doubt the comparative blindness of a cut and laid hedge, together with a stickier take-off and landing, account for the grief in this country.

Points that an Englishman would notice about your horses might be, firstly the big percentage of Thoroughbreds out hunting, and the fact that they did not hot up or pull, and then the almost general use of the standing martingale—furthermore he would be impressed by the courtesy in the field, and the absence of bumping and boring and jealous riding.

In conclusion, there are a number of frequently recurring and outstanding memories to content me until I am fortunate enough to come over again—and to enumerate them. There is the brief vision of the Middleburg going at great speed, overrunning the line, then recovering from what might have been a fatal check, by an instantaneously backward cast—brilliant and rapid houndwork. Then there is the pleasing sight of the Orange County Hounds, good looking and of that unusual colour. I like also to remember the Warrenton drawing through fifteen miles of blank woodland without a murmur of riot, the smart appearance and handiness of the Harrier pack at the Fairfield and Westchester Kennels, the descendants of Currier Factor at the Meadow Brook, and, lastly, Dunkirk the sort of horse that I had hitherto only ridden in my dreams, and that last day with the Millbrook, at the conclusion of which I remember thinking that one could have as much fun here as almost anywhere at home.

Look At The Record

In 12 International Series the United States Has Won 9 Times; Has Won All Three Mexican Matches

Bill Goodrich

It was the late Al Smith, onetime Governor of New York, who said, "Let's Look At The Record" whenever he wished to drive home a point to a voter or, spike false statements made by the opposition party.

In recent years there has been misleading impressions that the foreign polo teams have been the superiors of the United States Squads down through the years.

Well, as the "Happy Warrior" said, "let's look at the record".

In 12 International series with Great Britain, the United States has won 9 of the times, losing to the English the first two years of the Westchester Cup championship in 1886 and 1902, and again in 1914. Since its last loss, Uncle Sam's representatives have triumphed 6 consecutive times. The teams have not met since 1939 when Michael G. Phipps, the late Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., Stewart B. Iglehart and Winston F. C. Guest tripped Great Britain in straight games, 11-5, 9-4, at the Meadow Brook Club.

The United States has won all three meetings with Mexico for the General Manuel Avilla Comacho Cup. This series started in 1941; was played twice in 1946, first at the Meadow Brook Club in September and a month later at San Antonio, Texas.

Keener has been the International series play with Argentina. The United States won in 1928 and 1932, but lost in 1936. The South American squad stands a good chance of evening the series for the Cup of Americas this month at Buenos Aires. However, Argentina will have to put forth a tremendous effort, for strong is the United States team of George H. (Pete) Bostwick, Del Carroll, George Oliver and Peter Perkins. Lewis Smith and Jules Romfh are in Buenos Aires as reserves.

The scores and the players representing the United States against Great Britain follow:

1886, at Newport, R. I.—Great Britain (10-4, 14-2) vs. Winthrop K. Thorne, R. Belmont, Foxhall P. Keene, Thomas Hitchcock.

1902, at Hurlingham, Great Britain (1-2, 6-1, 7-1) vs. R. L. Agassiz and J. M. Waterbury, Foxhall P.

Keene, Lawrence Waterbury and R. L. Agassiz.

Springbrook Closes 1950 Polo Season With 13 Victories

Dan McCullough

The Springbrook Polo Club c Toledo, Ohio, has brought its 1950 season to a close with a record of 13 wins and 8 defeats. During the course of the season Springbrook scored 140 goals as against 113 goals scored by all opponents.

The Springbrook team was made up of players formerly with the Caranor Hunt and Polo Club of Perryburg and the Toledo Polo Club of Lambertville, Michigan.

The team opened its season with Grand Rapids on Springbrook's beautiful new field on Corey Road, and thereafter played in Grand Rapids, Detroit and Harbor Hills, with a majority of the games being played on the Toledoans' new field.

During the season the Toledoans played the Franklin Hills, Evergreen, Ivory Broncos and Pontiac Chiefs of the Ivory League, the Detroit Gold Hats, Harbor Hills, Cleveland, the Mahoning Polo Club and the Grand Rapids Polo Club. Such noted players as Jack Ivory, Billy Zimmerman, Hank Evinger, Bob Peterson, Orville Rice and Jack Stefani appeared more or less regularly on the Toledoans' field.

Through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Stranahan, the Toledoans will be able to play a winter schedule in the indoor ring on the Stranahan's beautiful estate west of Dr. Howard Harpst's Forestview Farm where the Toledoans stable their horses.

Howie Harpst, the sensational junior player, entered college this Fall and the games at Culver, Chicago and Detroit as well as the home games will be played by Hank Mather, Dan Abbey, Heinie Weiss, George Benjamin, Dan McCullough and Bower Corwin.

1936, at Meadow Brook Argentina (21-9, 8-4) vs. George H. Bostwick, Gerald Balding, Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., John Hay Whitney.

Robert E. Strawbridge, Jr. former chairman of the United States Polo Association, is the non-playing captain of the North America squad which meets Argentina. He left for Buenos Aires, November 6, by Pan-American airways.

Bostwick Field, winner of the National Open championship in September at the Meadow Brook Club, reached the semi-final round in the Argentina Open, November 1, with an 11-9 victory over LaEspadana. The losing team, a 22-goal side, held a 5-4 advantage at the end of four periods.

Bostwick and Lewis Smith scored four goals each in the triumph, but the report out of Buenos Aires, points out that Oliver was the outstanding player in the match. He scored two goals, while Perkins added the other.

The 1950 Bostwick Field season ended October 29. Westbury (Arthur Kaye, Archie Young, Devereux Milburn, Jr. Bill Stoothoff) defeated Jericho (Emilio Tagle, Fred Collin, Charles R. Leonard, Hazard Leonard) by 7-6. E. A. S. Hopping was the referee.

TEXAS CUTTING HORSES

R. H. Breckenridge of Texas was in White Post, Virginia, the other day to move a bunch of Herefords. This quiet, easy spoken gentleman handles many thousand cattle in a year's time, often buying the entire output of a ranch. He is responsible for several thousand cattle that are shipped to the lush Virginia grasslands each spring, some to be sold off grass, the remainder put in a feed lot and sold as finished stock.

He owns the 1949 champion cutting horse and being from Texas should have something to blow about, but Bob is not one to let off steam and it was like extracting a tooth, to get him to talk about Housekeeper, the now retired champion cutting horse of last year.

A top cutting horse is one that will move quietly among a bunch of cattle until you pick a beef that is to be cut from the herd. When your horse is put on the animal so designated, the horse will cut him out of the herd, and keep him out with practically no assistance from the rider.

This may sound easy but when you stop to realize how much one whiteface Hereford looks like another, or even more so an Angus, it is truly remarkable how much sense a horse has.

Housekeeper has won cutting horse contests in practically every western state that holds these contests, which is no small compliment to Mr. Corbett and his ability with a horse.

In some instances there are Texas boys who specialize in making these cutting horses. They will take a young horse and teach him to handle with the least help from the rider. After this is accomplished, the horse will get his "cow education". Usually this begins by cutting older cattle from a herd and putting them in a pen. When the horse masters this, he will be asked to cut out younger animals that are more fleet of foot and otherwise more difficult to handle. The third step is to be able to separate a calf from its mother. When the horse can handle this assignment, well, he is qualified to complete in a cutting horse contest.

The above procedure varies. Some cutting horses are schooled on goats—the idea being a good cutting horse can separate most anything.

It is interesting to note that all of this work is accomplished in a hackamore, the horse being able to stop from a full gallop in about five lengths, at the least little pull on the reins. —Sidney Culvert.

THOROUGHBRED THERAPY

Arnold Shrimpton of Lexington, who has spent a number of years turning out excellent copy for English and American Thoroughbred publications, has settled down in Lexington on a goodly plot of blue grass. At a loss for a name for his racing and breeding establishment of 24 acres, he suddenly bethought himself of the aches and pains from working around and over his acres to get them in shape for some yearling bloodstock. Suddenly as he rubbed his hand over a stiff and sore back that was not responding too kindly to weed chopping, fence mending, post hole digging his problem dissolved into inspiration and "The Aching Back Farm" was duly registered with racing colors from The Jockey Club. From it will go this November, two Whirlaways, the only two at the sales.

WESTERN-BRED

The buttons on the vest's of western horsemen are about to pop off with pride as they point out to their effete eastern colleagues that the three leading horses on the United States Horse Show Team, which done itself so proudly in its first competition under the aegis of civilian status, were bred in the West. Paleface and Country Boy are California-bred and Reno Kirk was bred in Oklahoma, by the U. S. Remount. It looks like its "go west" for a good jumpin' horse.

INDOOR POLO EXECUTIVES

George C. Sherman, Jr. was re-elected president of the Indoor Polo Association of America at the Annual Meeting held at the Union Club, Park Avenue and 69th Street. Delegates represented leading clubs in Chicago, Detroit, Ohio, New England and the Metropolitan area. Mr. Sherman is also a governor of the United States Polo Association and was Secretary and Treasurer of that organization for the past four years. Other officers re-elected were: William H. Nicholls, Major-General Joseph A. Teece and Lyman T. White, vice presidents, Paul Miller, secretary and Joseph Olmsted, treasurer. Walter B. Devereux who was re-elected Executive Vice-President is also secretary of the National Horse Show Association and a governor of the United States Polo Association. Mr. Joseph O. Lennon was newly elected to the office of honorary president. Mr. Lennon, a member of the Executive Committee for over twenty years, has always been one of its most active members. John F. Ivory, Sr. of Detroit and Roy D. Keehn of Chicago were newly elected members of the executive committee.

LAUREL SALE

Controlling interest in the Laurel Race Track has been transferred to Morris Schapiro, of Baltimore, Md. when the Maryland Jockey Club, which controls Pimlico, sold its 6, 710 shares of Maryland State Fair stock to the wealthy Baltimorean.

Mr. Schapiro, whose son, John, is a member of the board of directors of Pimlico, was associated with James Donn in the running of Gulfstream Park, some years ago, but at present has no connection with the Florida enterprise. The elder Schapiro is reputed to be one of the wealthiest citizens of the Maryland metropolis, and is attributed to have gained the nucleus of his fortune in iron and metal.

MISS BUDWEISER, 1950

The National Horse Show wound up in a blaze of glory on Tuesday night with the U. S. Team capturing the final International Perpetual Challenge Trophy. Norma Mathews, Carol Durand and Arthur McCashin won the trophy for the first time since 1941 for the United States. The show closed with the traditional parade of the International Team which, with the addition of the U. S. Team this year, did so much to heighten the interest in the show.

Auguring well for the further success of the U. S. Civilian Team was the enthusiasm displayed by August Busch of St. Louis after witnessing one of the earlier performances. He promptly asked Col. Wofford what was the best open horse that could be brought for the team. Col. Wofford suggested Circus Rose whereupon Mr. Busch bought the horse from William Schulzemeyer's Hi-Rock Farm for $20,000 agreeing to keep it until the American team wishes to make use of her, the only stipulation made being that she be called Miss Budweiser. As Col. Wofford stated, "this is a great boost for America's Olympic efforts", and then added, "it would be nice if we had a Miss Standard Oil".

GARDEN FATILITY

Optomist, Mrs. Sara Chait's 9-year-old bay gelding fell in the open jumping stake at the 6th and most hazardous, to all other contestants in the class, and broke his right hind leg and had to be destroyed.

Thirteen year old Spunky Fisher, rider, stood by and watched tearfully the efforts of the A. S. P. C. A. attendants, jump boys, and judges to place him in the ambulance.

The crowd of over 10 thousand in the darkened arena was completely hushed as the bullet performed its humane duty, then the lights were raised. This is the first time in the history of the National Horse Show, many of the veterans stated, for such a tragic misfortune to have occurred.

It was announced after the championship open jumper award that Mrs. Chait had purchased Mill arden Farm's My Goodness, the reserve jumper champion.

Valley Forge Olympic

The Valley Forge Olympic Horse Show held on October 16 was outstandingly successful any way you look at it. After seeing the lack of entries at some of the shows in this section (8 entries in the working hunter stake at Chester County this year) it was reassuring to see the enthusiasm at Valley Forge.

The classes were well filled with good horses and horses that can perform. One spectator was heard to remark, after seeing one of the working classes, that there were 7 top rounds in that class and the judges would be right putting it on any one of these horses.

Tarad performed consistently well for Jiggs Baldwin to win the championship for the 2nd straight year.

The breeding division had some very fine looking and well-bred youngsters. A challenge trophy was offered for the champion of this division for the first time at this show. This trophy was won by a yearling by Grey Flares owned by Mrs. Alan Robson.—Contributed by Dot Kilty, Show Correspondent.

Watching Troops Autumn

The Watching Troops Horse Show was held at the Watching Troops Stables, Summit, N. J. on Oct. 14. This is the largest children's troop in America, having 516 children riding this season.

Over 260 children were judged during the day. It certainly is a credit to Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Tully the way these youngsters ride and show the advantage of being taught correctly at an early age. It is phenomenal that there is almost no delay between classes, even though the troopers have to change horses (after drawing their numbers out of a hat) and the same horses are used in every class.

Out of this troop have come some of New Jersey's best equitation riders such as Frank Chapot, Miss Jean Damitz, Skipper Schroeder and many others.—Contributed by Jean Eyre, Chronicle Correspondent.
